Sharing Your Work Through ResearchGate, Academia.edu, and ScholarlyCommons
Thursday, October 6th | 12:00 PM - 1:00 PM
Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center, Kislak Center Seminar Room 626, 6th Floor
Familiarize yourself with major academic research sharing sites and learn about the copyright/permissions service provided through the library’s ScholarlyCommons office. Presented by Rebecca Stuhr, Coordinator for the Humanities Collections and Librarian for Classical Studies and History.

Creative Commons: A License to Share
Wednesday, October 19th | 12:00 PM - 1:00 PM
Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center, Kislak Center Seminar Room 627, 6th Floor
Sarah Wipperman, Scholarly Communication & Digital Repository Librarian, will lead the discussion on the various Creative Commons licenses, how to assign them to your work, and how to find CC material—images, texts, and other original works—to use in your own teaching, writing, & scholarship.

Open Access Week (October 24-30) Special Event
Open Access is an Intellectual Property of Learning
Monday, October 24th | 3:00 PM - 5:00 PM
Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center, Class of ’55 Conference Room, Room 241, 2nd Floor
John Willinsky, Khosla Family Professor of Education and Director of the Program in Science, Technology, and Society at Stanford University, will speak on the history, sustainability, and future of publishing across disciplines. The presentation will be followed by a panel of Penn faculty, who will discuss the challenges and advantages of open access as it applies to them and their respective disciplines. Peter Decherney, Professor of English and Cinema Studies at Penn, will moderate the panel.

Understanding and Securing Your Author Rights When You Publish
A Special Session with Eric Halpern of Penn Press
Thursday, November 10th | 3:00 PM - 4:30 PM
Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center, Kislak Center Seminar Room 627, 6th Floor
This workshop will feature Eric Halpern, Director of Penn Press, who will discuss the main clauses of a book publishing contract, and Sarah Wipperman who will discuss journal agreements, retaining your rights, and ways you can share your work.

An Introduction to Intellectual Property with the Penn Center for Innovation
Thursday, December 1st | 12:00 PM - 1:00 PM
Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center, Kislak Center Seminar Room 626, 6th Floor
Join us for this interactive discussion in which Sarah Johnson from the Penn Center of Innovation will share an overview of IP and raise important issues for authors to consider when creating and disseminating scholarly works beyond print publications such as videos, web sites, programs, data sets, and more.

To register or for more information, please go to http://bit.ly/pennOAevents